Student Consent for Release of Information

THE FAMILY EDUCATIONAL RIGHTS AND PRIVACY ACT (FERPA)

FERPA gives registered students the right to inspect and review their "educational records". "Educational records" are records, files, documents, and other material regularly maintained by the university and directly related to the student. It specifically excludes:

1) directory information, 2) records maintained personally by university personnel, which are not available to others, 3) medical and counseling records, 4) some law enforcement/legal records, and 5) financial information about your parents.

The Act also states that the university cannot permit access to, or release of, "educational records," or personally identifiable information contained therein, to any party without the consent of the student. There are exceptions, for example, for directory information and information disclosed for legitimate educational purposes. (See The Concordia University, Nebraska Student Handbook for a full explanation of FERPA policy.)

To comply with FERPA, students must provide written consent to the university to release "educational records", even to a student's parent or guardian.
