2025 SEASON OUTLOOK

The roster that led the 2024 Bulldogs to an 8-2 record and final NAIA national ranking of No. 18 was laden with talented seniors. More than 40 seniors (including fourth-, fifth- and sixth-year players) helped the Concordia University, Nebraska Football program to its best season since 2001. This spring, Head Coach Patrick Daberkow and his staff have gone to work on retooling and remaking a new edition of Bulldog Football. But no one is thinking about rebuilding.

"I think momentum does carry over," Daberkow said of following up the '24 season. "It's fun to see the excitement of the guys who know what it looks like to have a team that can win big games. You know that you have what it takes. You just have to execute. I think there's a lot of confidence that comes with the season we had last year – that's throughout the whole building. We're a very hungry group. I'm excited to see how we continue to prepare and how we treat the summer and how we treat fall camp. Do the next right thing. That's something that we talk about. That's where our focus is."

This spring was about bringing up to speed offensive and defensive lines that will be undergoing a makeover. Meanwhile, at quarterback, DJ McGarvie passes the baton to Gideon Stark. If the pieces come along in those areas, perhaps the Bulldogs will position themselves for another special season. In 2024, Concordia outscored its opponents by a combined total of 385-184 and completely outmatched its in-state rivals (45-10 over Doane, 42-6 over Hastings and 45-13 over Midland).

Spring 2025 position-by-position glance:

Quarterback – The graduation of DJ McGarvie, the most prolific passer in program history, leaves a void at signal caller. McGarvie set program career passing standards for yards (9,045), touchdowns (82), completions (761) and attempts (1,318). While McGarvie's loss will be felt, the coaching staff believes 6-foot-7 Gideon Stark of Magnolia, Texas, is more than ready to step into a starting role. Stark has bided his time for three years inside the program. When given the opportunity, Stark has flashed a big arm. The quarterback crew also includes 6-foot-6 senior-to-be Collin Reetz.

Running Back – The 1-2 punch of Mark Arp and Carlos Collazo combined for 1,755 rushing yards in 2024. Following a First Team All-GPAC season, Arp will graduate and move on. That leaves Collazo as the primary back. The Marquette, Neb., native used a bruising style to average 6.7 yards per carry as a sophomore. Collazo has shed weight since the fall and has enjoyed a strong spring as the No. 1 tailback. A senior-to-be, Jesse Herndon also looks to take on an increased role in the backfield. Tyler Douglass is another back that saw action last season. Concordia averaged a terrific 5.3 yards per carry as a team in 2024.

Receiver – You can't just replace an Austin Jablonski, a two-time NAIA First Team All-American. A pro football hopeful, Jablonski leaves a legacy as one of the best to ever play for the Bulldogs. Fortunately, Concordia brings back the bulk of its two deep with Adam Van Cleave headlining the group.

Van Cleave broke out in 2024 as he reeled in 57 receptions for 652 yards and six touchdowns. He'll be backed by the likes of Max Bartels, Braylen Muhle and Jonny Puelz. Daberkow and company expect the passing game to continue to be featured thanks to the arm talent of Stark and an up-and-coming receiver crew. Dabekow has high praise for how Bartels has come along. One other name to watch is Ian Medeck, who transitioned to football from the Concordia Men's Basketball program.

Tight End – The top two tight ends, John Goodwin and Daylan Russell, combined to catch 10 touchdown passes from McGarvie last season. Both have used up their eligibility. After putting behind a scary situation in the fall of 2023 (colon tumor), Maddox Rickertsen returned to the field in 2024 and could become the team's No. 1 option at tight end. The group also includes Dusty Kapke and Noah Brumm, among others.

Offensive Line – The top unit will have a completely different look with all five starters from 2024 having exhausted their eligibility (including All-American right tackle Blake Schlegel). Position coach Grady Koch and company are confident the next wave can keep this unit at a high level. Among returners, Brevin Damrow started at center in last season's win at Doane and the likes of Derek Campbell, Kadence Velde, Seth Moore and Jeremiah Vasquez possess varsity experience. Carter Meier and Layne Bugarske also got their feet wet in 2024. Year after year, Daberkow and his staff place a heavy emphasis on offensive line recruiting. The '24 line surrendered a grand total of four sacks.

Defensive Line – Star nose guard Carson Fehlhafer will draw plenty of attention following a First Team All-GPAC season in 2024. Fehlhafer earned NAIA National Player of the Week honors after he recorded three sacks in the win at No. 2 Northwestern. Fehlhafer has spent much of the spring semester throwing for the track & field team (and won a GPAC indoor title in the shot put), but the Bulldogs know what they'll get from him in the fall. There will be new starters around him as fellow all-conference first teamers Devon Polley and Kyle Sterup will graduate. So too will Stephen Hughes and Tal Solo. That opens the door for many others. Terry Sebek is one player with high potential. Carson Adams, AJ Frazey, Lukas Lafler and Brock Ostdiek have also earned plenty of spring reps.

Linebacker – Grant Huss returns to lead this unit after he paced the team with 87 tackles in 2024. The leadership of Huss will be a key as the Bulldogs replace starters Michael Grindey and Nick Leader. Concordia also returns Deegan Barnes and Drake Trent as potential starters. Barnes made 34 stops last season. The group was one of the keys to the '24 defense allowing only 109.1 rushing yards per game.

Defensive Back – This unit is stocked with the most returning experience on coordinator Corby Osten's defense. Safety Daylon Henson emerged as a standout playmaker in 2024 as he plucked six interceptions (with one going for a touchdown) and was named an All-American by the Associated Press. Henson has been sidelined in the spring but will be back in time for August camp. Others with big-time experience include corner Will Potratz and safeties Luke Penrod and Jaden Seier. Blake Mosenteen also earned starting time opposite of Potratz last year. The secondary hopes to make another leap forward as it did from 2023 to 2024. As a reverse from the past couple of seasons, the secondary is the group that is most battle tested.

Specialists – Concordia returns kicker Peyton Atwood (school record 44 PATs in 2024) and punter Braxtyn Koch (37.7 punting average as a freshman). In the return game, Adam Van Cleave is a prime candidate to again fill the role. He averaged 21.9 yards per kick return last season. Calvin Sassaman also has experience returning kicks. Long snapper Max Wurdeman is also back in the fold. An employee in Concordia's business office, Harrison Martin has been working with the specialists after Mr. Concordia Coach Courtney Meyer stepped away from coaching duties.

QUICK HITTERS

-2024 was his best season yet as the Bulldogs went 8-2 and concluded the year at No. 18 in the NAIA coaches' poll. Concordia was one of the last teams left out of the NAIA playoff field.

-Led the 2017 and 2021 teams to third-place finishes within the GPAC. The '21 squad's seven wins are a high water mark during Daberkow's tenure.

-Coached All-Americans Darnell Woods (2013), Trey Barnes (2015/2016), Tarence Roby (2017) and Lane Napier (2018/2019/2020/2021), Garrett Schardt (2021), Korrell Koehlmoos (2022), Austin Jablonski (2023/2024), Blake Schlegel (2024) and Daylon Henon (2024).

-Coordinated the 2013 and 2015 defenses to top five national finishes in terms of total defense.

-In seven years as Defensive Coordinator, Daberkow coached 29 first or second team All-GPAC defensive selections.

-Served as a team captain on the 2006 Concordia Football team.

Patrick Daberkow, Spring 2025:

"We've coached together as a staff for a while and we've learned lessons from graduating players in the past. The way we've been able to retain our roster has helped us to develop players so we're not bandaging things every year. We have a steady structure of younger players coming up through the ranks. We feel really good about that. We've had guys who have been putting in the work for a long time. It will be exciting to see them seize this opportunity. They are guys who are selfless teammates and now have an opportunity to step into larger on-field roles. On the offensive line, we're excited about the development we've had there. We've had a ton of competition there this spring. That's a really good thing to have."

STAYING POWER: Bulldogs to showcase new-look squad

The Concordia Football team that finished the 2024 season by shel-lacking rival Midland in Fremont isn't quite the same one that will kick off the upcoming season underneath the Bulldog Stadium lights. While the defense and special teams units welcome back plenty of familiar faces and key pieces, the offense will roll out only two returning starters (both receivers) while breaking in a new QB1. Such dynamics will put the program's recruiting and development to the test.

Up front – where it all starts – it's next man up. The Bulldogs must replace All-American Blake Schlegel and the entire 2024 starting of-fensive line. In offseason interviews, Head Coach Patrick Daberkow has consistently rattled off the names of a half-dozen or so linemen that he expects to pick up the slack.

"It's different in the names that are going to get called over the loudspeaker but the same in the production and the standard that we expect to have," Daberkow said. "We have a tremendous group of of-fensive linemen coming back. I don't care what you have going on in the backfield or on the perimeter, if you're not good up front, you don't have a shot. We really feel confident in our offensive line. Gideon Stark is probably going to start for us at quarterback. He's been biding his time and has done a great job of playing that backup role and being ready at any point. He's ready now."

When the names do get called on Sept. 6, Bulldog fans will no longer hear "DJ McGarvie" or "Austin Jablonski," the most prolific quarterback-to-receiver duo in program history. Enter senior quarterback Gideon Stark as the new face of the offense. If all goes as planned, the offense will continue to hum like it did in 2024, when it averaged school records of 38.5 points and 469.7 points per game. The dominance of last season's line-of-scrimmage play was evident in the statistics as Concordia outrushed its opponents by a near 2-to-1 margin and out-sacked them, 28-4.

Incredibly, the opposition has managed a grand total of four sacks over the past 15 Bulldog games (dating back to the middle of the 2023 campaign). A 6-foot-7 Magnolia, Texas, native, Stark will have the opportunity to pick GPAC secondaries apart if the big guys up front can continue to play at that level. Stark has waited three seasons behind McGarvie and is ready to spread the ball to the likes of Adam Van Cleave, Max Bartels, Jonny Puelz and others. Stark has used his rocket arm to complete 19-of-30 passes for 237 yards and a touchdown in backup duty over the past couple of years.

Said Daberkow, "We're really excited to see what he does within the offense this coming season. He's got a really strong arm, highly competi-tive and a great leader. He has a huge ceiling. We are really excited about him ... We feel like our production should remain high. We don't have any reason to think that we can't put up the numbers we did last year."

Stark is likely to hand the ball frequently to bruising back Carlos Collazo, who led all GPAC ball carriers (with at least 80 attempts) in yards per carry (6.7) last season. Collazo ran for 560 yards and seven touchdowns as the No. 2 back to Mark Arp in 2024. It's now his time to take over the top spot.

On the other side of the ball, Concordia returns virtually the entire secondary and standouts at all three levels with nose guard Carson Fehlhafer, linebacker Grant Huss and All-American ball-hawking safety Daylon Henson. The departures of multiple year starters Michael Grindey, Nick Leader, Devon Polley and Kyle Sterup will open the door for fresh faces to make an impact. Meanwhile, the special teams units should be stronger as kicker Peyton Atwood, punter Braxtyn Koch and long snapper Max Wurdeman are back in the fold.

Come January, Daberkow's program turned the page on the 2024 season. The goal is to build upon it. The '25 season is about showing the Bulldogs have staying power amongst the league's elites.

Says Daberkow, "It was a special group. It's been a lot of work to figure out what are we best at. What can we be elite at within our conference? I think the GPAC is the toughest conference in small college football. I think that's a really hard thing to debate against. You have to be on top of your game. Our best players were our hardest workers last year. We had players who made big plays in big moments. Any time you have suc-cess, it's because the process was adhered to. We were able to execute some things last year that we hadn't in a while. It was fun to see it come together. It's certainly not where we want to be yet – not until we're putting rings on fingers. It was a great steppingstone for sure."
